Precinct Election Officials

These are the people who ask the voters to state their name and address, oversee the voting machines, and assist the voters in casting their ballots.

Each Election Day voting polling site is staffed with a Chief Judge, two Party Judges, and a number of other assistants. The Chief Judge is of the same political party as the Governor of North Carolina. The two Judges are from different political parties, and the assistants are equally selected from the two political parties, whenever possible. The (3) Precinct Judges are responsible for the conducting of the election, and for overseeing the election process for each precinct.
